Thank You TexCom P25 Attendee,

A & B Communications would like to thank all those who attended the TexCom 2009 P25 Forum. We appreciate the fact that you took your valuable time to spend a day with us. We know that lives depend on your radio communication systems and that making good decisions can be confusing at times. We hope the forum was not only informative but provided an opportunity to see and speak with experts who develop products, standards and regulations specifically for the Public Safety community.

A & B Communications has established itself as the leader in South Texas for state-of-the-art communication systems, technology and integration. We invest in our people through continuous training and mentoring. Every member is dedicated to providing customers with the highest quality service and professional talent available.

We understand that you depend on critical communications to save lives and ensure public safety. I personally assure you that A&B takes our commitment to service very seriously. Our hope is that when you look for answers and solutions for system design, enhancement, deployment or maintenance; that you will think of us.

Again, thank you for attending the TexCom P25 Forum and hope to be working with you soon.

Respectfully,

Patrick Russell
